SC3 International Hires J. Kyle Bodhaine as Chief Operating Officer Bodhaine to Oversee Operations and Growth of New Emerging Acquisitions

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

(Albuquerque, NM) September 17, 2013—SC3 International (SC3), a New Mexico-based acquisitions company, today announced the recent hire of J. Kyle Bodhaine who will join the SC3 team as Chief Operating Officer. In this role, Bodhaine will focus on strategic, tactical and short-term operations management for more than 15 companies all under the umbrella of the SC3 International management team. This will include the oversight and guidance of operational design, functionality and improvement of existing operational systems. In addition, he will ensure continued growth of SC3 by providing recommendations for future acquisitions based on company background and historic fiscal performance.

“Mr. Bodhaine’s proven background in operations, overall senior level of experience and track record of success is a key component to our executive team. It’s exactly what the company needs for its next major phase of growth.” says SC3 International Chief Executive Officer Steven B. Chavez. “After working with him for 12 years on projects ranging from commercial development to industrial controls, I have developed the utmost confidence that he possesses the diverse experience necessary to manage multiple businesses and have equally high expectations of his performance.”

Bodhaine comes to SC3 International with more than 30 years of experience in construction, architecture and project management. Most recently, he was President of Reid & Associates, a construction management group, and was responsible for all project management, marketing, sales and day-to-day operations. Prior to that he was a project manager at Fluor, an international engineering, procurement, construction and maintenance (EPCM) company. He started his architectural career with firms in Texas and California. He then joined the Marriott Corp. giving him a breadth of experience in the commercial hospitality industry. He holds an architectural degree from the University of Texas at Austin and is a registered NCARB certified Architect.
